

sienna tenn's zines!

'Zines' are a short form of magazines, self-published by someone to spread message. They are often created with just an A4 piece of paper and a story. Here are tenn steps to having your own copy of my zine exploring the story of 'should've been mine':

Chapter 2: it's not the same now.

1. Print pages 2 and 3 double-sided.

2. Fold in half so page 3 is facing you.

3. Then fold in half.

4. Fold in half again!

5. Unfold and check there are creases for 8 pages.

6. Fold in half and cut down the middle.

7. Unfold, then fold in half, with page 3 facing outward.

8. Push either side together and check the page numbers are in order.

9. Enjoy!!!

10. Share your creations online and tag @siennatenn !

should've been mine - sienna tenn

And I know you ain't got the time

But you seem like (seem like)

You should've been mine

I see your face in person and it's not the same now

Your eyes a little down, I'll lay here on the ground

And feel the Breeze of the trees in the autumn and the ways your Face intertwines into space my darling, my darling

And know what we had was some words in time

And all the lines blurred, all the silence

All the silence

And I know you ain't got the time

But you seem like

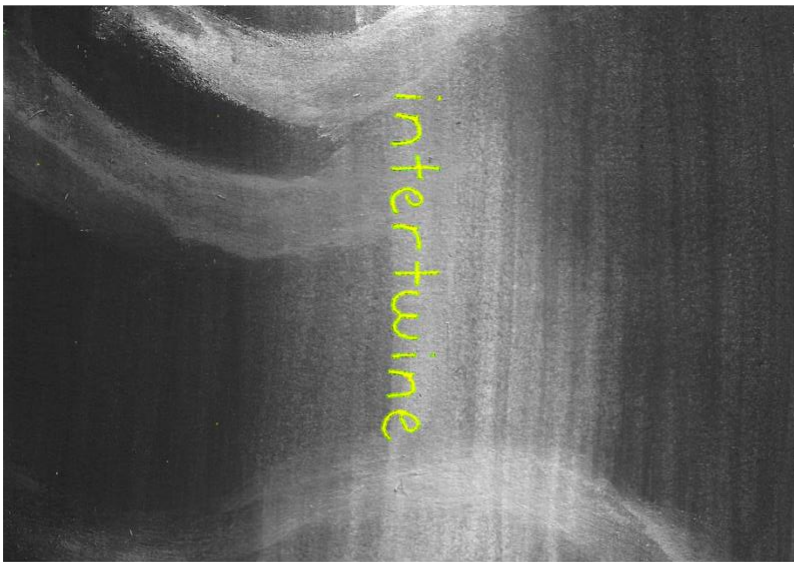

You should've been mine

I see your face in person and it's not the same now

Your eyes a little down

I'll lay here on the ground

stream 'should've been mine' by sienna tenn on all platforms!

intertwine

feel the breeze

all the silence

I'll lay here on the ground

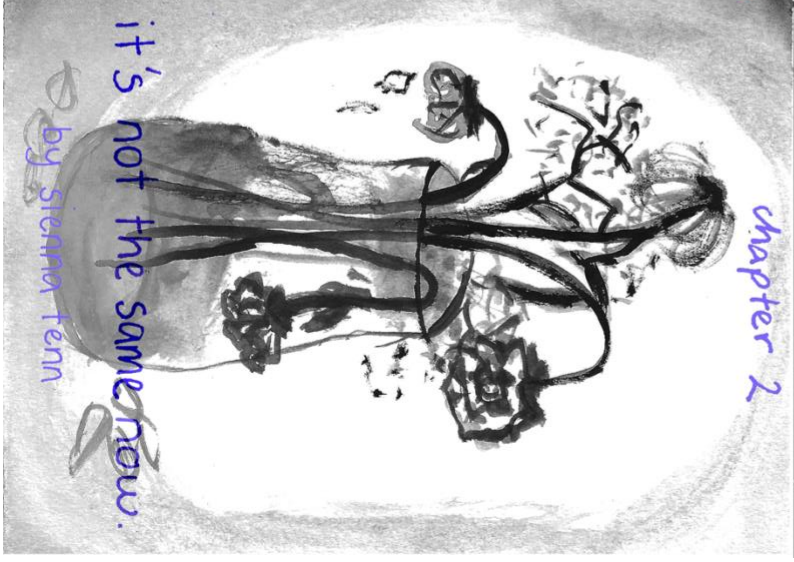

you seem like you should've been mine

by sienna tenn

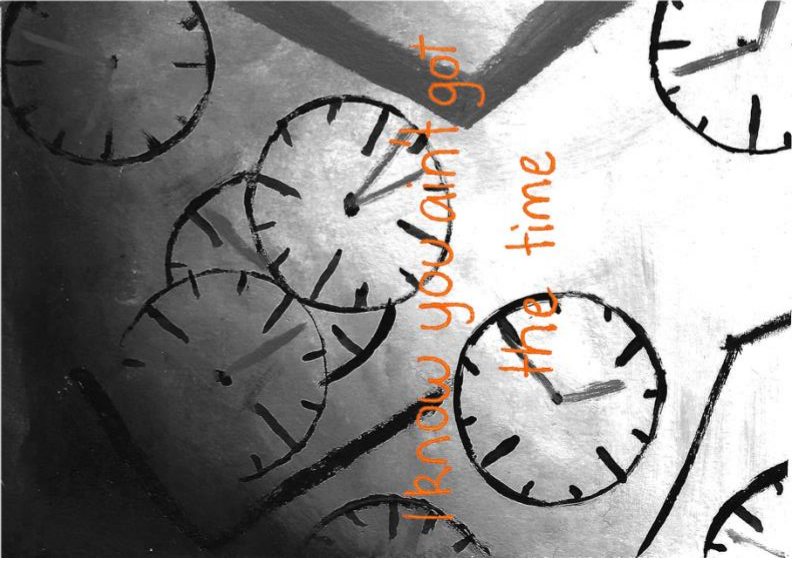

your face, your eyes

it's not the same now.

chapter 2

by sienna tenn

I know you ain't got the time